Security By Way of a Lien against employees of the STATE of Tasmania for commercial crimes. Crimes of these nature cannot go unpunished.

A Security by Way of Lien, as used by the House of Muresan, is not a commercial loan security, but a lawful and spiritual instrument of notice and claim. It is used to secure restitution for harm, dishonour, and trespass against the living estate. A security by way of a lien is crucial in ensuring accountability, liability and compensation for damage done when all attempts to reason and notice have been exhausted.

When the STATE or its employees commit commercial crimes or act as false executors over the NAME, they incur a debt in commerce. Our lien serves as public notice that the living man – Alin-Vasile of the House of Muresan – holds the superior claim, and that those who trespass against the living estate are bound by the commercial liability declared.

This lien serves to reinforce the rights of the living man, emphasizing the importance of security by way of a lien in the realm of commercial law.

Unlike a traditional lien between banks or businesses, a Security by Way of Lien from the House of Muresan is a spiritual to heaven and to earth and lawful valid claim on earth that speaks across jurisdictions until discharged with compensation. The validity of this claim is upheld under Natural Law, Divine Law, and Lex Mercatoria Law Merchant, highlighting the significance of security by way of a lien in various legal frameworks.

The following records constitute a Permanent Commercial Default and a Perfected Security Interest totaling $708,100,000.00 AUD (payable in .999 Fine Silver).
